

LINGO - UK Carbon Bombs Project Coordinator - part-time

Description

Carbon Bombs are the more than 400 biggest oil, gas and coal projects globally, which could each emit more than 1 gigatonne of CO₂ over their lifetime. Defusing them is imperative to avoid runaway climate change. While the UK has only one of these projects within the country's border, many UK companies and financial institutions are involved in carbon bombs overseas. The UK-based Project Coordinator will activate and support climate movement actors in the UK to build opposition towards the extraction of these gigantic projects.

We are looking for an enthusiastic part-time project coordinator who will help make the carbon bombs framing mainstream in the climate movement and, through this, contribute to the effort to stop the biggest fossil fuel projects.

Suggested reading - Carbon Bombs, Carbon Bombs in the Guardian

Role title - Project Coordinator

Location - Remote, UK based

Reporting to the - Carbon Bombs Project Coordinator & Director

Start Date - Flexible, ideally May/June 2024

Term - 1 year part-time (15-25h), possibility of extension depending on funding

Package - €18,000 - €35,000 gross per year, depending on experience and time commitment

Employment type - self-employed (ideally)

Role and responsibilities

- Support research on UK links to carbon bombs and help identify points of intervention.
- Build a network of UK organizations interested in the carbon bombs framing.
- Develop factsheets and presentations for the network and the media.
- Share key findings with the network and the public during briefing and webinar sessions.
- Collaborate with media partners and support them on specific requests.

- Support UK partners in their campaigns with data, strategy and media connections.
- Facilitate connections between UK partners and local resistance networks and groups in other countries
- Coordinate with the Carbon Bombs Project Coordinator and Analyst.
- Monitor, evaluate, and document progress.

Required skills, attributes and experience

- Familiarity with issues surrounding climate change and fossil fuels.
- Strong communications and outreach skills.
- Understanding of climate campaigning, finance, economics or policy.
- Ability to identify and capture new opportunities.
- Knowledge of the UK climate movement actors and in-country dynamics.
- Multicultural workplace skills and understanding.
- Dedication to ending the burning of fossil fuels.
- Based in the UK.

Useful skills and experience

- Existing connections to UK climate movement actors.
- Understanding of and connections to UK media.
- Education in the field of environment, finance, economics or international relations.
- Experience in fundraising.
- Experience in climate campaigning.
- Besides English, speak one or more other languages, such as Spanish, Arabic, Chinese, Hindi, and French.

We invite all applicants interested in the position to apply, regardless of whether you think you meet all the requirements listed. We value your willingness to engage, learn and be part of the growing climate movement.

Application process

Please send a CV and letter of intent to francesco.loyola@leave-it-in-the-ground.org. Applicants who meet our criteria will be invited for an interview, after which a small task will be assigned. Successful completion of the task will result in a formal offer.

About LINGO

The Leave it in the Ground Initiative (LINGO) was established in 2011 with the goal of contributing to ending the fossil fuel age as quickly as possible.

LINGO has identified and pushed forward high-impact game changers for the fossil endgame for a decade, working at the intersection of resistance to fossil fuel projects, research and incubating bold new framings and solutions to the climate emergency. We are members of the Global Gas and Oil Network, Rapid Transition Alliance, Beyond Gas Network, Ende Gelände Coalition, Mexican Alliance Against Fracking and others.

LINGO's strategy is to reframe the thorniest issues to make them actionable and provide strategic information to the movement to act on critical issues.